

HOW TO GET MORE VIEWS

ON YOUR

FACELESS VIDEOS

Practical Tips to Boost Traffic on
YOUTUBE, TIKTOK & REELS

Introduction

Faceless videos are one of the simplest ways to generate free traffic online, and are particularly good for making affiliate sales.

You don't need to appear on camera.

You don't need expensive equipment.

And you don't need professional video skills.

Creating them is incredibly easy with AI tools like Jim Daniels' Faceless Video Income Formulator

But there is one challenge many beginners face after creating their first videos:

Getting people to actually watch them.

The good news is that most videos fail not because of poor content, but because of a few simple mistakes that are easy to fix.

In this guide you'll learn several real-world strategies that can dramatically increase the number of views your videos receive, even if you're just starting out.

Tip 1: Focus on Topics People Are Already Searching For

One of the easiest ways to get views is to create videos about topics people are already looking for.

Instead of guessing what people want to watch, look for existing demand.

You can do this by:

- Searching YouTube for tools or products in your niche
- Looking at the suggested videos that appear
- Checking which videos have high view counts

For example, if you search for a topic like:

“AI video tools”

You will likely see videos with thousands or even hundreds of thousands of views.

This tells you that people are already interested in this topic.

You can then create similar videos with your own angle.

Tip 2: The First 3 Seconds Matter the Most

Most viewers decide whether to keep watching within the first few seconds.

If the beginning of your video is slow or unclear, people will scroll away immediately.

Instead, start your video with a strong hook that creates curiosity.

Try experimenting with different types of hooks such as:

- curiosity statements
- surprising discoveries
- quick demonstrations
- simple tips

Even small improvements in your opening line can significantly increase viewer retention.

Examples:

- “This website turns text into videos automatically...”
- “I found a tool that creates marketing videos in seconds...”
- “This AI tool surprised me...”

The goal is simply to make viewers curious enough to keep watching.

Tip 3: Keep Your Videos Short and Focused

Many beginners try to explain too much in a single video.

Instead, focus on one clear idea per video.

Examples include:

- demonstrating one tool
- explaining one feature
- sharing one useful tip

Short, focused videos are easier for viewers to watch and are often favoured by social media algorithms.

Tip 4: Use Clear, Curiosity-Driven Titles

Your title plays a huge role in whether people click on your video.

Good titles often include curiosity, a benefit, or a clear result.

Examples:

- “This AI Tool Creates Videos Automatically”
- “3 Tools That Save Time for Marketers”
- “This Website Builds Landing Pages in Minutes”

Simple titles often perform better than complicated ones.

Tip 5: Add Captions for Your Voiceover

Many people watch videos on their phone with the sound turned off, especially on platforms like TikTok, Instagram Reels and YouTube Shorts.

Because of this, adding captions for your voiceover can significantly increase the number of people who continue watching your video.

Captions simply display the words from your voiceover as text on the screen while the video play.

This has several advantages.

First, viewers who are watching without sound can still understand what your video is about.

Second, captions help reinforce your message because viewers are both hearing and reading the information at the same time.

Third, captions naturally keep the viewer’s eyes focused on the video, which can increase watch time.

And watch time is one of the key factors that social media platforms use when deciding whether to show your video to more people.

The good news is that creating captions is very easy.

Many video editing tools automatically generate captions from your voiceover, so you only need to review them and make any small corrections.

Even simple captions can make a noticeable difference to how many people watch your videos all the way to the end.

If your goal is to get more views and better engagement, adding captions to your faceless videos is a simple improvement that can have a big impact.

Tip 6: Create Short Versions of Your Videos

One of the easiest ways to increase your views is to repurpose your videos.

After creating your main video, cut out the most interesting 15–30 seconds and post it as a short video.

These shorter clips can be shared on:

- YouTube Shorts
- TikTok
- Instagram Reels
- Facebook Reels

Short-form platforms often provide strong visibility, especially for new creators.

Tip 7: Post Your Video on Multiple Platforms

Many creators make the mistake of posting their video in only one place.

Instead, use each video on multiple platforms.

For example, one video can become several pieces of content:

- A full YouTube video
- A YouTube Short
- A TikTok video
- An Instagram Reel
- A Facebook Reel

This simple strategy can dramatically increase your total views without creating extra content.

Tip 8: Be Consistent

The biggest factor that determines success with faceless videos is consistency.

Many creators quit after posting only a few videos.

However, social platforms often take time to understand your content and find the right audience.

If you continue publishing regularly, your videos have a much better chance of gaining traction.

Even posting two or three videos per week can make a big difference over time.

Tip 9: Learn From Your Best Performing Videos

After you've posted several videos, take time to look at your results.

Ask yourself:

- Which videos received the most views?
- Which topics generated the most interest?
- Which titles attracted the most clicks?

Once you identify what works, simply create more videos on similar topics.

This is one of the easiest ways to grow your views quickly.

Tip 10: Focus on Helping the Viewer

Finally, the most important principle is to create videos that are genuinely helpful.

Viewers are far more likely to watch and share videos that:

- solve a problem
- teach something useful
- introduce helpful tools

When your videos provide value, the views will naturally follow.

Final Thoughts

Faceless videos can become a powerful source of traffic and affiliate commissions.

You don't need expensive equipment or advanced skills.

By focusing on simple topics, strong hooks, and consistent publishing, you can steadily grow your audience and increase your video views.

The most important step is simply to start creating videos and keep improving with each one.

Over time, even a small number of successful videos can generate consistent traffic and results.
